Michael, I had a helpful discussion with Professor Lyon this afternoon. He did not offer himself as a candidate. He gave me comments on the names I had forwarded, and I can discuss these with you. However, the choice is not straightforward and before proceeding, I would like to explore two new names he recommended: James Wood, University of Texas, and Amy Warren, University of Tennessee. Do you think you could fairly quickly run a check to see what you can find out about where they stand in the debate.

With thanks, Thomas Eichelbaum
